

International Sustainable Development Research Society Conference in 2022

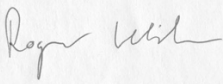

Letter of intent between organising partners to host and organise the ISDRS Conference in 2022 in Stockholm, Sweden

Aim of this letter of intent is to commit as individuals and as universities to organise and host the annual ISDRS Conference in Stockholm, Sweden in 2022, on the dates of June 15-17, 2022, with a PhD day on June 14, 2022 and optional Sustainability Tours on June 18, 2022. As a group of universities, we found the ISDRS2022 partnership, and as a group of individuals, we form the organisation committee for hosting and organising the ISDRS 2022 conference. As individuals and as universities, we commit to contribute to the following overall plan and phases for the years prior to the conference to collaborate, support and stimulate each other to advance in sustainability:

- Formation phase: During 2019, but no later than December 2019, we will formulate a full bid in compliance with ISDRS conference bid requirements.
- Immersion phase: During 2020 we will organise and host workshops to stimulate in best possible ways staff at our universities to jointly present research, enabling networking and forming of research groups across the ISDRS2022 partnerships with the aim to result in research applications and joint activities.
- Building-the-future phase: During 2021 we will stimulate staff across three or more of ISDRS2022 partners to formulate research applications, special issues in well established journals, book proposals to well established publishers, and other kind of research related activities, both science- and art-based, that can be launched and realised by means of tracks, papers and performances presented at the ISDRS 2022 conference.

Working title of the ISDRS 2022 conference is currently: Sustainability and Courage: Culture, Art and Human Rights. ISDRS2022 partners may be added along the way.
